

The Pathetic Figure—The Kid Whose Ma Refused to Let Him Burn the Leaves After He'd Raked 'em and Everything

Fellows—'Captain Russell, U. S. A.'

Hal Reid presented a new war play which depicts love in a new form, as it is the love of a soldier for his country and his duty to his flag, in the most stirring and dramatic instances he is brought face to face with the duty of giving the command that will cause the execution of his own mother who has been captured in the allies lines somewhere in France.

Love is pictured in a new vein in the play which deals with the career of a young American officer who enlists in the United States army against the wishes of his mother and sweetheart who are German by birth and in sympathy with the enemy. Capt. Russell (John Winthrop), dislocated arm, loses his eyesight as a private and later receives a commission as a captain and is assigned to Gen. Pershing's detail somewhere in France.

After the death of her mother (Anna Day) who learns of the death of her two brothers in Germany enlists as a nurse in the enemy's service and takes up secret work for the German government. She is captured within Gen. Pershing's line and sentenced to death before a firing squad.

After the sentence has been passed by the court-martial Gen. Pershing sends a wireless message to President Wilson asking that Sawyer be released just in time to save Capt. Russell's life and he is married to a Red Cross nurse (Bessie Burt), who takes care of him in the world of a taking care of the wounded soldiers.

The humor of the production is furnished by George Washington Jones (Wilbur Cox), who is the sergeant-major of the hospital and is seen as the sentry in the trenches with a large amplifier.

Minnie Schneider (Charlotte Lillard) who is Capt. Russell's betrothed and afterward becomes a prisoner of war camp as an aviatrix, takes her part well.

Cosmos—Vanguard.

Friedlander at the Boulevard musical comedy, "The Night Clerk," presented at the Cosmos Theater this week, has for its chief charm its chorus of "Broadway beauties." Florio, Anderson, the prima donna, sings sweetly and looks like a flower girl in pretty gowns, which may be said also of the "fifteen" who appear arrayed in the garb of "Spring," "Summer," "Autumn" and "Winter." Venus, Diana, "Rainbow" and Psyche are surrounded by a galaxy of the lesser lights of mythology in pretty stage costumes. There is a plot involving "Night Clerk" at the Metropolitan Hotel. New York City is the telephone exchange, a young millionaire and his fiancée whom he has never seen. Much dry humor provokingly enough is introduced by the hotel engineer.

Charles Nicholas and company present a military travesty called "Preparedness," which is a take-off on the serious actor who shines from enlisting and enlisting and enlisting with new songs and black-face monology. Kelley and Boyd sing and dance, and the Hersher Brothers comedians, the program. Alice Joyce and Marc McDermott are the girls and the principals in "An Alabaster Box," the matinee photoplay feature. "The Crooks," a first-run Keystone comedy, and the Hearst-Pathé News are shown.

Garden—Edna Goodrich.

Motion picture enthusiasts turned out in great numbers to see Edna Goodrich, the noted stage and screen star, at Moore's Garden Theater last night in "Queen X," her second big photo production. It is the story of a sensational rescue and betrays the fight against smugglers in the notorious Wall Street district, in which his men capture "Queen X," known among Chinese and the white members of the underworld gang as the "queen of Chinatown."

"Queen X" is recognized by the United States district attorney as a woman of position, formerly prominent in society, who has become a drug addict. In her blind pursuit of the black smoke she becomes familiar with the secrets of the smugglers, and they, fearing that she might reveal and betray them, keep her imprisoned in an underground den, steeped in the fumes of opium. During her trial for complicity in a plot to defraud the government, she rescues and betrays them, by Mary Stone, sister of John Stone, the assistant district attorney, as a former schoolmate who saved her life in convent fire. Mary is successful in the case and she takes "Queen X" to her brother's summer home in an effort to restore her health. Stone's purpose in assenting to this arrangement was to expose and bring to light the opium ring from his vantage. During the process he is much attracted by the girl's beauty and it is apparent that she is attracted by him. She finally escapes the drug and marries her benefactor.

Strand—Fighting Odds.

Enthusiastic audiences packed Moore's Garden Theater last night when Maxine Elliott, noted beauty and stage favorite, made her debut as a film star in the big Goldwyn photodrama, "Fighting Odds," directed by Fred Cooper Megrue and Irvin S. Cobb.

Miss Elliott is provided with an emotional role which affords her the momentary opportunity to display her wonderful talent and talents without being in the least subordinating to her brother, James Copley, a rising young manufacturer, becomes the object of the schemes of John W. Blake, an unscrupulous racketeer and slacker, who became the head of a gambling combine. But in his sudden rise he steps into the trap set to ruin him as a business man. Blake brings about a condition which makes Sopley criminally responsible for the failure of the combination, and results in his being sent to prison.

Loyal wife, played by Maxine Elliott in all of his scenes, a wonderful influence in all of his scenes, clears his name and brings Blake to account. The production is an extraordinary piece of excellent photography and artistic recital and plays and lays special emphasis on the dramatic elements throughout. The picture will be shown through the entire week. News and educational films, well chosen music by the Strand Symphony Orchestra conclude the program.

Casino—Thy Daughter.

There is a lesson for lovers of the silent drama in "Thy Daughter," which is coming to the Casino Theater tomorrow. The photodrama, which is a real masterpiece of importance to a subject of vital importance to every parent, was written and directed by Ivan Abramson, and is the most im-

Members Awarded

Everybody Wins and Herald's All-Prize Club Prizes All

With less than two weeks to call and overtake the leaders in T. Herald's All-Prize Club many of its members who have heretofore been content to march in the rear ranks are steadily advancing to the front ranks in the published voting list. With the bright hopes of riding in a fine, big cozy up-to-date automobile after the campaign is over October 15.

Regardless of the fact, however, whether you own an automobile, building lot, a merchandise order or a cash commission you will be repaid for the efforts put forth to get the subscriptions. This campaign cannot really be called a contest, for in a contest one works hard and gets thousands of votes only to be left in the lurch because someone else gets a few more votes. In T. Herald's All-Prize Club every one wins something worth while or will be paid a cash commission on the new subscription money received if they do not win a prize and remain active to the close of the campaign. An active member is one who turns in one new subscription each week the last two weeks of the campaign.

The NEAR DOUBLE VOTE schedule is the last real bargain of the campaign and this period ends Monday night, October 15, at 10 o'clock. After October 15 the original vote schedule goes back into effect according to the first announcement. Make the next five working days count on the near double period.
